

SAHRC STRATEGIC BUSINESS PLAN

2010/11 – 2012/13

FOREWORD BY THE ACTING CEO, ADVOCATE NALEDZANI MUKWEVHO

Section 184 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa states that the South African Human Rights Commission (the Commission) must promote respect for and a culture of human rights; promote the protection, development and attainment of human rights; and monitor and assess the observance of human rights in the Republic.

It is against the background of this constitutional imperative that the Commission has embarked on a strategic exercise, which should advance the ideals embedded in our founding legislation. Therefore, this strategic document aims at making reality the constitutional imperative of strengthening democracy in the country, based on the enjoyment of human rights by all.

The main focus of the 2010/11 to 2012/13 SAHRC strategic plan is to monitor the reduction of inequality and poverty alleviation by the government. Human rights are about equality at all spheres of life. The glaring inequality and acute levels of poverty in our country undermine the democratic achievements of the past 15 years. This is evident from service delivery protests by the majority of our people who bear the brunt of growing inequality and poverty in the country.

Through its operational programmes, namely Education and Training, Legal Services, Research, Documentation and Policy Analysis as well as Parliamentary and International Affairs, the Commission will implement this strategy in order to fulfil its constitutional mandate. This will be achieved through the support of its corporate services programmes, namely Information and Communication, Human Resources, Administration and Internal Audit.

We therefore look forward to 2010/11 as the year of action, and this strategic plan will assist us in achieving this overall objective.

Naledzani Mukwevho
Acting Chief Executive Officer
South African Human Rights Commission

1 PART ONE: INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background

The South African Constitution (1996) enshrines the supremacy of the Constitution and the rule of law. Everyone in South Africa, including the government, and all laws are subject to and must follow the Constitution. The Constitution also contains the Bill of Rights, which is the 'cornerstone of democracy in South Africa' and compels the state to 'respect, protect, promote and fulfil the Bill of Rights'.

Recognising that the protection and promotion of human rights cannot be left to individuals or the government, Chapter Nine of the Constitution creates independent national institutions, subject only to the Constitution and the law, to transform our society from its unjust past and to protect the fundamental rights of all in South Africa.

The South African Human rights Commission (SAHRC) is one such national institution, which derives its powers from the Constitution and the South African Human rights Act of 1994. It is also given additional powers and responsibilities by other national legislation.

Since its inauguration on 2 October 1995, the Commission has taken up the challenge of ensuring that the noble ideals expressed in our Constitution are enjoyed by all in South Africa. The Commission works with government, non-governmental organisations, civil society and individuals, both nationally and abroad, to fulfil its constitutional mandate under the following governing principles:

- 1) The Commission is independent and subject only to the Constitution and the law, and must therefore be impartial and must exercise its powers and perform its functions without fear, favour or prejudice;
- 2) Other organs of state, through legislative and other measures, must assist and protect the Commission to ensure the independence, impartiality, dignity and effectiveness of the institution as a Chapter 9 institution;
- 3) No person or organ of state may interfere with the functioning of the Commission; and
- 4) The Commission is accountable to the National Assembly, and must report on its activities and performance of its functions to the Assembly at least once a year.

The 2010/11 to 2012/13 strategic plan provides a framework within which the Commission will deliver on its constitutional mandate within the above articulated governing principles.

1.2 SAHRC Legislative Mandate and Powers

The mandate of the SAHRC as contained in section 184 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa (Act No. 108 of 1996) is as follows:

- 1) The SA Human Rights Commission must –
 - i. Promote respect for human rights and a culture of human rights;
 - ii. Promote the protection, development and attainment of human rights; and
 - iii. Monitor and assess the observance of human rights in the Republic.
- 2) The Commission has the powers, as regulated by national legislation, necessary to perform its functions, including the power to do the following:
 - a) Investigate and to report on the observance of human rights through its Parliamentary and International Affairs Programme, Research, Policy Analysis and Documentation Programme and its Information and Communications Programme;
 - b) Take steps to secure appropriate redress where human rights have been violated through its Legal Services Programme;
 - c) Carry out research through the Research, Policy Analysis and Documentation programme; and
 - d) To provide human rights education through the Education and Training Programme.
- 3) Each year, the Commission requires relevant organs of state to provide the Commission with information on the measures that they have taken towards the realisation of the rights in the Bill of Rights concerning housing, health care, food, water, social security, education and the environment.
- 4) The Commission has additional powers and functions prescribed by specific legislative obligations in terms of the Promotion of Access Information Act (PAIA) and the Promotion of Equality and Prevention of Unfair Discrimination Act (PEPUDA). The Commission has to do the following:
 - a) Promote awareness of the statutes;
 - b) Report to Parliament in relation to these statutes; and
 - c) Develop recommendations on persisting challenges related to these statutes and any necessary reform.

2 PART TWO: SERVICE DELIVERY SCOPE

2.1 Policy and Legislative Environment

The following legislation and policies will form the basis from which the Commission will plan its operations in the forthcoming 2010/11 financial year:

Public Finance Management Act (PFMA) of 1999 – The Commission continues to improve compliance with the Public Finance Management Amended Act No. 29 of 1999 in its operations.

Treasury Regulations Act of 2005 – The Commission continues to make effort to comply with the Treasury Regulations Act in improving administrative compliance.

Preferential Procurement Policy Framework (PPPFA) No. 5 of 2000 – The Commission has aligned its procurement policies and procedures to this legislation.

Broad Based Black Economic Empowerment (BBBEE) Act 53 of 2003 – The Commission has also aligned its procurement policies and procedures to this legislation.

Constitution of the Republic of South Africa – section 29 (1) of the Constitution guarantees the right to basic education and adult basic education. The Commission recognises that primary education is the most important component of basic education and would therefore follow up on the recommendations on its report of the Public Hearings on the Right to Basic Education. In addition, the Commission would follow up on the recommendations on its report of the Public Hearings on School Based Violence.

Policy process on the system of provincial and local government – Of concern to the Commission on this policy is how any changes to provincial and local government structures will affect service delivery and how any service delivery challenges are likely to see an increase in complaints pertaining to economic and social rights. Institutional Environment

The following is an assessment of the institutional environment within which the Commission operates. A number of issues are highlighted below as having the opportunity to have an impact on the achievement of the Commission's strategic plan:

Proposed amendment of the SAHRC Act – Proposals on the amendment of the SAHRC Act in 2009 will have implications on the work of the Commission as it derives its powers from the Act.

Membership in International and Regional Human rights fora – Membership in forums such as the International Coordinating Committee on Human Rights Institutions (ICC), the African National Human Rights Institutions Forum, the Commonwealth Forum of National Human Rights Institutions and the African Commission on Human and People's Rights, will strengthen the Commission's standing in these regional and international human rights fora

National Human Rights Institutions/treaty body monitoring workshops – The work of the Commission is significantly influenced by South Africa’s human rights treaty obligations and international human rights law. The Commission will institute various activities that will seek to ensure the ratification of outstanding international conventions and promote the full implementation of these conventions.

Operational Internal Audit Function – The permanent and in-house audit function of the Commission became fully operational in the 2008/09 financial year – the priority in the coming year remains to strengthen this function.

2.2 Strategic Issues

The key strategic Issues that the Commission faces in the 2010/11 include but are not limited to the following challenges that helped define the priority areas for the Commission for the 2010/11 financial year:

- Budget – the problem is how to streamline capacity to achieve the broad and complex mandate of the Commission within the current budget. This will necessitate Commissioners engaging with National Treasury, the department of Justice and Parliament to increase the budget of the Commission by up to 30 percent;
- Monitoring and Evaluation system – improving monitoring and evaluation systems in order to improve performance in the achievement of the strategic business plan remains one of the key challenges for the Commission in the current financial year;
- Information technology – The Commission has weak IT infrastructure and will need to heavily invest in the acquisition of new IT systems and infrastructure and developing capacity while developing IT governance capacity to manage its IT systems.
- Complaints Handling – our complaints handling system has problems and remains a key challenge that has to be dealt with if the Commission is to achieve its mandate;
- Performance Management – The Auditor-General will be auditing performance in the next two years and the Commission has to improve its processes and systems to allow for better performance management system
- Human Resources – the management of the Commissions human capital, in particular the recruitment and development of staff, requires extensive review in the next financial year;

- Organisational restructuring - The structure of the Commission is not conducive to good corporate governance or improved performance. The provinces, which implement the Commission's strategic business plan, are understaffed, and the Commission will have to undergo a comprehensive re-structuring process to meet the demands made on it in the provinces.
- Education and Training – Education and Training which is important in inculcating a culture of human rights as is the mandate of the Commission, will need to be reviewed. The review will be important in determining how human rights is incorporated into policy development processes at a national, provincial and local level, and in particular what the impact is on economic and social rights.

2.3 Strategic priorities

The SAHRC management strategic planning team recommends the following priorities for the 2010/11 period. The priorities reflect the focal areas of the work of the Commission's programmes over this period, and the goals of the Commission that emanate from these priorities:
